Your Facilitator

Kara has been teaching for 19 years in Nottingham, Birmingham, Solihull and Warwickshire. She originally trained in mainstream Primary, but has spent most of her career in special education. She has held various leadership roles, including Deputy Headteacher, Head of School and Headteacher. Kara currently works part time as a School Improvement Advisor for Birmingham City Council, where she supports special schools. She also works as a freelance consultant on a variety of projects related to SEND and leadership.

"I am passionate about working with pupils who have SEND and supporting teachers with their continuing professional development. I enjoy facilitating, mentoring and coaching on various NPQ programmes, as well as the Early Career Framework."
