"Workload and work/life balance is a key passion of mine. I believe it is essential that staff are treated with respect and trusted to do a good job, in turn for actually doing a good job. I felt so strongly about this topic that I wrote a book about my approach to it: "Teach Like You Imagined It" (CrownHouse Publishing, 2019)"

Kev initially trained as a Mechanical Engineer, and worked as a development engineer and project manager for 10 years before transitioning to teaching.

Kev became the head of a large Maths department in his second year of teaching. Three years later, he became an Assistant Head Teacher, moving to Senior Assistant Head Teacher 3 years after that. Kev has now been Deputy Head Teacher for five years out of a total 15 years in teaching. He also completed his NPQH in 2024.
